

BLACKFIN ALSO ON RAI 3

AFTER FRANCESCA NOCERINO, IT'S THE TURN OF FILIPPO SOLIBELLO AND SUSANNA TAMARO

Blackfin eyewear by Pramaor, the brand that made titanium crafting its strong point through the values of neo-made in Italy, is continuing to have its golden time. Totally made in Italy by Pramaor - Italian titanium eyewear - Blackfin features a minimalist, elegant style and over the years it has skillfully enhanced the faces of numerous famous personalities and acquires new aficionados every day. On the Rai 3 TV program "Apprescindere" hosted by Michele Mirabella Thursday, October 21, 2010, writer Susanna Tamaro wore all-titanium Blackfin model 596 BAILEY with a modern and refined mood thanks to the black-white color combination.

Bailey has a front piece made from a single sheet of pure titanium and ultra-slim temples in beta titanium. The marking, decorations and cut of the temples are made by laser for a model with a decisive character and clearly defined design.

The Blackfin brand is a masterpiece of technology and design that meets the tastes of a very varied public. Its minimalist, decisive and clear lines enhance faces in a convincing way and adapt excellently to the demands of both male and female targets. Thanks to this versatility, Blackfin eyewear was recently worn by Filippo Solibello, co-host with Massimo Cirri of the Rai 3 TV program "Caternoster". Solibello was seen wearing Blackfin 448 Shetland, the perfect combination of titanium and minimalist elegance. A unique product for quality and comfort with the best technology guaranteed by the exclusive crafting of titanium as well as the lightness and refinement typical of this model.
